

Create a Master Training Schedule in 30 Minutes

How a leading biotech company remastered global training operations with Administrate.

ABOUT THE COMPANY

Our client is a multi-billion dollar corporation leading the pharmaceutical industry, working on the development of diagnostics products for infectious diseases, diabetes, cancer, cardiac care, women's health, and more. They maintain over 100,000 employees worldwide, with headquarters in Switzerland.

The Challenge

Cost to create a Master Schedule:
$300,000 per quarter in meeting time.
Schedule changes cost even more.

Directors, managers, and other stakeholders were required for multi-day sessions to plan quarterly training. Coordinating instructor schedules, high-value equipment availability, learner requirements, and business needs took days of intense effort and a myriad of calendars. Underbooked equipment and labs, and a lack of schedule agility continued to challenge budgets and stakeholder needs.

Operational expenses were high due to manual scheduling, planning, and documenting ILT training processes.

High-value medical equipment was not fully utilized in training sessions, impacting program ROI.

No single source of truth existed to organize scheduling data and provide visibility to the entire organization.

Bottom Line Outcomes

The Master Schedule meetings moved to 100% automation in Administrate. Administrate's AI-powered Scheduler returned, time, budget, and agility to the training team and stakeholders.

3-day training sessions, involving multiple stakeholders and training managers reduced to one 30-minute AI-powered collaboration.

Single source of truth for planning data yields actionable insights for the entire organization and agility for change.
